Zuccaire Gallery

SBU's Contemporary Art Gallery

Georgia LaMair Tomczak
Senior Gallery Manager

About

History of Gallery: Since 1975, the Zuccaire Gallery has brought professional and student exhibitions of contemporary artists to Stony Brook University's campus. Located in the Staller Center for the Arts in a 5,000 square foot space, the gallery engages with the campus and surrounding community through educational programming and engaging exhibitions. Each exhibition is a timely exploration of our world--exploring ideas of science, culture, and history through the lens of art.

Audience: SBU campus & Surrounding community

How is a university art gallery different from a museum?

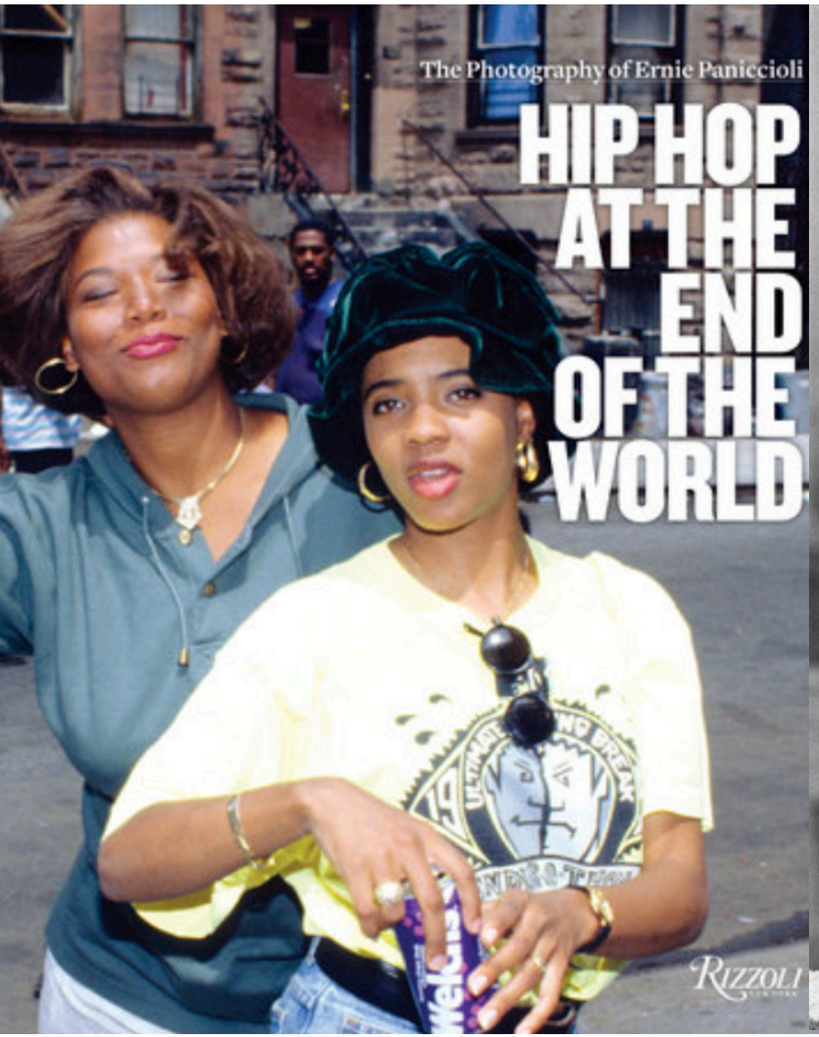

Current Exhibition: Noel W Anderson: Black Excellence

Photography & Record Exhibition, summer 2027

BioArt Exhibition, fall 2027

The future is biological

How we use IT

IT: Google Drive, Mailchimp (email/marketing), Adobe Creative, SOLAR, concur (credit card/budgeting), sprout social (social media publishing), website, canva

AI

How IT & AI could make my life easier: make staff jobs easier & more collaborative, not take them away

Challenges

Very small staff

Funding

Attendance & Campus Collaborations

Infrastructure, maintenance

Questions?

CONTACT:
Georgia LaMair Tomczak
georgia.lamair@stonybrook.edu
Senior Manager, Community Engagement and Gallery Operations